Yew Tree House, Ford Lane
Langley, Stratford-Upon-Avon, CV37 0HN

The Property

Occupying one of the most desirable positions within the sought-after village of Langley, Yew Tree House is a charming detached period residence that has remained within the same family for two generations. Set well back from the lane behind mature planting and occupying an exceptional plot of approximately half an acre, this much-loved home presents a rare opportunity to acquire a character property in an idyllic setting, offering enormous potential to create a truly special village home.

Beautifully maintained throughout its lifetime, the property now offers the perfect blank canvas for sympathetic remodelling and modernisation, allowing a new owner to blend period charm with contemporary living. Extending to approximately 1,750 sq ft, the accommodation is generously proportioned, filled with character and enjoys delightful views across the surrounding gardens.

An inviting reception hall provides a warm welcome and flows effortlessly into a generous dining room overlooking the rear garden, creating an ideal space for entertaining and family gatherings. Adjoining this is a cosy snug, complete with an attractive inglenook fireplace, equally suited as a quiet sitting room, reading room or home office.

The principal living room is an impressive space, centred around a traditional brick fireplace and enjoying excellent natural light through windows and doors opening directly onto the gardens, creating a seamless connection between the house and its beautiful surroundings.

The kitchen is well equipped and provides access to an enclosed courtyard, whilst an inner lobby incorporates a cloakroom/WC before leading through to a highly versatile fourth reception room, offering flexibility as a hobbies room, studio, guest bedroom or ground floor bedroom if required.

To the first floor, a spacious landing gives access to three generous vaulted double bedrooms, each enjoying their own individual character, together with two well-appointed bathrooms.

Outside is where Yew Tree House truly comes into its own. The mature grounds are simply enchanting, beginning with a private terrace immediately behind the house before opening onto expansive lawns framed by established trees, colourful planting and deep herbaceous borders. Raised seating terraces provide peaceful vantage points from which to enjoy the gardens, while the mature landscaping creates a wonderful sense of privacy and seclusion rarely found.

A detached double garage is approached via a secondary driveway, complementing the generous parking available to the front of the property. Beyond the formal gardens, a charming covered walkway crosses a gently babbling brook, leading into an area of private woodland that feels wonderfully hidden away. Meandering pathways beneath the canopy of mature trees create a magical natural retreat, making this an exceptional setting for families, gardeners and those seeking a true escape to the countryside.

Yew Tree House is far more than simply a period home; it is an increasingly rare opportunity to acquire a substantial village property occupying remarkable grounds, combining timeless character, immense potential and one of the most idyllic garden settings in the area. For buyers looking to create their forever home in a prime Warwickshire village, opportunities such as this are seldom available.
